At this year's event, CORSAIR is demonstrating a fully connected portfolio spanning high-performance components, gaming peripherals, creator tools, and AI workstations. The showcase underscores the company's ability to deliver complete, end-to-end systems that combine performance, customization, and design, while introducing AI-enhanced capabilities across the content creator product suite and Sim racing training.

Computex 2026 also marks a significant step forward for CORSAIR PRO, the company's new portfolio of AI workstations and servers built on NVIDIA Grace Blackwell architecture. CORSAIR PRO extends the company's core strengths in thermal engineering, high-performance system integration, and customization into the rapidly growing market for secure, on-premise AI infrastructure. Customers benefit from CORSAIR's deep technical knowledge to optimize configurations for their specific workloads. This expansion complements CORSAIR's leadership in gaming and creator hardware while opening a new avenue for long-term growth.

Key Computex 2026 Highlights:

- Ecosystem breadth across growth categories: New products across cases, power supplies, cooling, fans, peripherals, audio, displays, furniture, and customization accessories reinforce CORSAIR's position as a comprehensive platform for gamers and builders.
- Continued leadership in premium DIY performance: Flagship innovations, including AX1600i SHIFT, HX1000i SHIFT CRYSTAL, TITAN II ULTRA LCD coolers, and WARTHOG rugged case, elevate performance, reliability, and design for high-end enthusiasts.
- Expanding reach with mainstream offerings: Products such as the TC80 Gaming Chair, HS35 v3 headset family, RME Series power supplies, and compact 2800X case bring CORSAIR quality and design to a broader audience.
- iCUE LINK scaling as a unifying platform: New launches further strengthen iCUE LINK's role in simplifying system builds, reducing cable complexity, and enabling deeper software-driven customization.
- Innovation in competitive gaming: The CLIPPER PRO MINI 60 Hall Effect keyboard delivers high-speed responsiveness and advanced input control in a compact form factor tailored for esports players.
- Cross-brand integration driving differentiation: The NIGHTSWORD v2 WIRELESS SD integrates Elgato Stream Deck functionality directly into a gaming mouse, showcasing CORSAIR's ability to unify gaming and creator workflows.
